

Rheumatism

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by muscular and inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered for over three years. I tried every remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted, and even bedridden with rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case. I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent, simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your rheumatism, you may send the price of it, or, if you prefer, I will send it to you for nothing. Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

CONNECTICUT COLLEGE DEAN ADDRESSES WOMEN'S GUILD

With a large attendance the Women's Guild of the United Congregational church held its 15th anniversary meeting Friday afternoon at the community house, Church street. The meeting was called at 3 o'clock and following a brief business session Dr. Frank Nye, dean of Connecticut College, Torrington, addressed the assembly.

In his talk Dr. Nye went back to colonial days when there were no schools for girls, except a few privately owned institutions. There was no opportunity for girls to get an education. It was around 1800 that a public school was established for girls, and the school hours were from 5 until 7 o'clock in the morning. The girls were sent to school by their mothers.

From then on schools sprang up here and there and public schools started to take girls in.

Regular accredited colleges have grown up as the result of these early schools. About twenty years ago the question arose as to what special line of study girls should pursue in college.

With a view to answering this question Connecticut College began its career a few years ago. Connecticut College teaches, in addition to the regular college studies, the care and management of the home, and the care of the family.

Dr. Nye's talk was well received by the department social activities committee, with Mrs. John Kukla in charge, assisted by Mrs. Fred Krohn, Mrs. Fannie Adams and Mrs. E. L. H. Young.

Following the business session, Allen Latham, one of the most prominent speakers in New England, gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "The Future of the Home." His talk included many points that were of interest to the members. He told of the difficulty in keeping bees through the winter, telling how he kept them in the hives and kept themselves warm. He also told of the bee colonies, in which there are 50,000 to 75,000 in each colony, and of the various ways in which the bees get their honey, and of the difference between the drones, workers and queen bees.

Following the talk, refreshments of honey sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served by the committee.

OBITUARY.

Captain Charles J. Connell.

Captain Charles J. Connell, one of the oldest members of the Norwich fire department, in point of service, and for years previous to the days of the volunteer fire department, died at his home, 15 Spruce street, Friday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock.

Captain Connell had been in poor health for the past three years, but his condition did not become serious until about three weeks ago. Hardening of the arteries and complications in the heart were the cause of his death.

He was born in Norwich on Nov. 2, 1840. The son of John and Mary Connell. He was married to Mrs. Mary Connell in this city where he had a large circle of friends. He learned the trade of a moulder and followed this occupation for some time, and afterwards was employed in the local shops. During the time of the volunteer fire department he was an officer in the department, serving as captain of the old Niagara Engine company No. 2. On May 15, 1903, he became a regular member of the paid department and served faithfully as a fireman since that time. A number of years ago he was made captain of Hose company No. 5 and later of Engine company No. 1.

When J. J. Desmond was elected mayor of the city Mr. Connell was made deputy chief in which capacity he served until the election of Mayor Robert M. Gerou. Capt. Connell was then transferred to Chemical company No. 2, as captain where he served until his death. He was a member of White Cross Council No. 13, Knights of Columbus, the Foresters of America, the Moulders' union and Royal Arcanum.

He was twice married, his second wife, who survives, being Margaret Hartigan. He is also survived by six children, Daniel J. Connell of Hopedale, Mass.; Charles J. Connell, Jr., of Watertown, Thomas Connell of the U. S. navy, stationed in Panama, Mrs. Elmer Peckham of Westport, and Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Connell of this city. He also leaves four grandchildren. There are two brothers, Maurice Connell of Boston and John Connell of this city and two sisters, Miss Margaret Connell of Norwich and Mrs. Walter Benne of East Dedham, Mass.

In the Stimpson tunnel under the Alps, which is by far the greatest tunnel in the world, the water flowing out of the south end from the many veins encountered in the heart of the mountain, amounted to 15,000 gallons a minute, and furnished sufficient power to compress the air by which the drills were worked, and to refrigerate the tunnel. The necessity for refrigeration may be judged from the fact that the heat in the deeper part of the tunnel rose as high as 140 degrees Fahrenheit, when not artificially reduced.

ALLEGED TRAVELING HOCH PARLOR IS CAUGHT BY NORWICH POLICE

Peter Wozrak of Tataville, whom the police say they have been keeping an eye on for some time on the suspicion that he was peddling "hoch" from a suit case, was arrested in Greenville early Friday night by Officer Peter Driscoll and brought to police headquarters with the two suit cases, one carrying a large olive colored suit case and the other a small black case. The two bags had in them containers for five gallons of liquid. Wozrak claimed he was peddling medicine, but both suit cases were found to be in them jars practically empty but smelling of some alcoholic liquid.

When tests were made at police headquarters a little of the small quantity of liquid found in two of the jars, it burned readily with a blue flame.

In the suit cases were two earthenware and two glass gallon jars, which just fitted in nicely and rested on a strip of wood that had been arranged to hold them. The other case contained two quart glass jars.

In answer to questions by Captain D. J. Twomey, the arrested man persisted that he was peddling medicine and also selling razors, of which he had four in the suit case. He was locked up in a cell.

The police believe that Wozrak has been selling liquor in Jewett City and Plainfield and the neighboring country for some time past, as he has been observed making trips, they say, with the suit case on the Jewett City trolley line.

COLUMBIA WHISKEY MAKERS BOUND OVER FOR TRIAL

Solomon Seigel and Stanley Kowachowski, both of Columbia, who were arrested on Wednesday by Federal Prohibition Agents Congdon and Briggs were presented for hearing before U. S. Commissioner Earl Matthews in this city on Friday morning. The charge against the men was having and operating a still.

The officers in making the raid found a 50-gallon still, two barrels of mash and 100 pounds of mash hidden under the hay in the Seigel barn and also two hundred pounds of sugar and other ingredients suitable for the manufacture of illicit whiskey. Both men admitted that they owned the still and had used it to manufacture whiskey for sale.

Behind a door they found Dominick Sam, from whose clothing an unloaded revolver dropped as they pulled him into the open. He was locked up and accused of carrying concealed weapons.

Later Mrs. Anna Lopez, 49, was arrested at the house and was charged with breach of the peace. She admitted there was a still in the house, but said she knew nothing of its operation. She claimed she had been robbed of $375 while in the house.

NURSES ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION ELECTS FOR THE YEAR

The annual meeting of the Nurses Alumni association of the William W. Backus hospital training school was held on Wednesday afternoon. In spite of the bad weather there was a very good attendance. During the past year the sum of $100 has been raised for the purpose of starting a graduate nurses' sick fund. It is the aim of the nurses to raise at least $100 yearly for the purpose.

After the reading of reports, routine business and election of officers, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

The officers for 1922 are as follows: President, Mrs. Annie Hammer Vail; vice president, Miss Elizabeth Sullivan; second vice president, Miss Julia Lynch; treasurer, Miss Rose Durr; secretary, Miss Ellen Tonger; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Mary Fields Marra.

WATER STREET PLACE RAID SHOWS LIQUOR UNDER FLOOR

The place at 82 Water street alleged to be owned by Leonardo Dancello was visited by Federal Prohibition Agent Machol on Friday morning and a quantity of liquor was found concealed under the floor. It is understood that the hiding place of the liquor was shown by a man who had gone in and bought a drink, then reporting to the officers where he saw the liquor taken from concealment.

Prosecutors are now working on the case and the man being held is being furnished under bonds of $500 which were released during the past month.

HEAD AND HAND CUT IN DRAINING ACCIDENT

The 62-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ravenel, of 31 Union street, was severely injured early Friday evening when he lost control of his sled while coasting down Union street and ran into a hydrant near the telephone exchange building.

The boy had the tip of one finger badly crushed and also had a rash in his forehead. He was unconscious for a time and was attended by Dr. W. T. Driscoll.

State D. A. R. Meeting.

Nearly all of the fifty-two chapters of the Daughters of American Revolution in Connecticut were represented at the meeting of the state regents and state treasurers in Memorial hall, state library, at Hartford, Friday.

Mrs. George Maynard Minor, of Watertford, president general of the national society, D. A. R., brought greetings from the society, and gave an informal talk on her impressions of the disarrangement conference in Washington. She reported 1,401 members added during the past month.

Miss Clemmie Henry of Maryville college, which is helped by the D. A. R., spoke briefly, expressing her gratitude. Mrs. John Laddie Bush, of Litchfield, state regent, announced that the manual for immigrants has been prepared in English, Spanish and Italian and 3,000 copies of each language have been given to Robert C. Deming, state director of Americanization, for distribution among the foreign population in several towns and cities of Connecticut.

NORTH GROSVENORDALE

At the general assembly of the high school on Monday evening, Jan. 9, the speaker, and the title of his address was "Pioneers." The speaker opened his subject with a concise review of the pioneers of our history, he mentioned among others Daniel Boone, Lister, Pasture and Edison. An analogy was drawn between these early pioneers and the students of the school of today—our contemporary pioneers. Mr. Livingston pointed out how we all could be pioneers in our own special work if we chose to be. It rested solely with us as individuals what we made of ourselves and of our life. The address was brought to a close with a brief word picture of the greatest of all pioneers—Christ.

TOPICS FOR THE NATIONAL AGRICULTURAL CONFERENCE

Washington, Jan. 13.—The National Agricultural conference, which will convene here January 23, was opened prominently the question of "How the European situation has affected conditions in the United States." Secretary Wallace announced tonight. At the same time he added, suggestions would be received for any readjustments among agricultural should make to meet these conditions.

Financial affairs relating both to the present emergency condition of agriculture and a permanent policy for its development, which it is hoped by officials the conference will lay down, are expected to form an important part of the program. Secretary Wallace declared today that no hard and fast outline had been drawn for the conference to follow but the delegates probably would hold conference meetings in the mornings at which general matters would be discussed and then in the afternoon break up into committees for the more detailed consideration of their problems.

President Harding will open the conference, the secretary said, and a canvass of the general agricultural situation throughout the United States would follow. The conference probably will be a success, it was added, under the heads of production, transportation, financing and marketing. These in turn will be divided into sub-committees along commodity lines such as cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco and others.

SEA FIREWORKS

The skill of the maker of fireworks is not directed entirely, or even chiefly, to the manufacture of jumping, cracking, golden rain, and other illuminations, nor to the construction of elaborate set pieces which usually figure in the public firework displays. By far the most important, and responsible part of his work consists of the making of the various kinds of fireworks used as a means of signaling the vessels identity when they pass one of Lloyd's stations during the night.

Each steamship line has its registered code of light by which its vessels can be recognized, and so many variations are required that the odd is often a very complicated one.

Many of the codes involve the use of the familiar Roman candle.

One actually in use consists of a red light followed by the burning of a Roman candle which throws out first two blue stars and then in succession two white stars, two red, two white and two blue.

On some steamship lines different signals are used in different parts of the world, the arrangements varying according to the station the vessel is passing.

In addition to these lights every lifeboat that is carried by a vessel has a canister beneath the seat, in which a supply of colored lights for signaling purposes is always kept.

Even the fishing smacks carry their firework. The type classified used is the hand-light, in which chemicals for producing the colored flares are contained in a cartridge fitted to a wooden handle to facilitate signaling.

In the hand-light the fuse is ignited by friction, much in the same way as a match is struck, so that there is no fear of its failing to act in wet weather or high winds.

The hand-light is commonly used by the fishing smack to signal to the collecting vessel to come and take the catch on board.

The sea firework with which the landman is most familiar is probably the line-carrier rocket used to establish contact between the coast guards on shore and the vessel in distress.—London Mail.

The first lottery of which there is any authentic record was one held at Bruges in 1448 by some Italian merchants who possibly suffering from depression in trade and being ignorant of modern clearance sales and "bargain basements" endeavored to dispose of their wares in this novel manner.
